

The objectives of the organizational team of The Malta International TV short film festival are:

Malta
international TV short film festival

1. To create a platform across various media, namely television, radio, the internet and printed media, for local and international filmmakers in Malta and other countries.
2. To promote film making in Malta both on a professional and amateur level
3. To increase film appreciation and cultural dialogue amongst the general public
4. To facilitate training opportunities and the participation of Maltese films in festivals abroad.
5. To act as national contact organization to organize an extension of established foreign film festivals in Malta.

The main organizational committee, Tony Parnis and Joyce Grech, have extensive experience in working in the audiovisual industry, both in the technical and the artistic and production management aspects. Mr Parnis and Ms Grech are both award winners in the Broadcasting Authority Programme awards, and have won the Best Cultural Programme in the Vodafone Malta Television Awards for the production of this televised festival in 2009.

The organizational committee has the support of very well-established professionals acting as judges during the festival and therefore their constructive criticism enables the film makers to improve their product, but also to help viewers form a more informed opinion of what is presented to them.
